The above depicts a very pleasant feature of bicycling as a sport. The club have ridden from their headquarters in the city, to a suburban village some twenty miles away, where they await the arrival of the racing members who were to start just thirty minutes later.

Five minutes more and the two foremost of the racing men—Fri, on his "Harvard," and Yonson on his "Yale," appear in sight. The pace is tremendous: the men are neck and neck, and Dodges, the captain of the club, whom you observe is leaning on his "Shadow" light roadster, in the foreground, declares the race a tie.

"Where are the other men?" he asks.

"Oh, behind, somewhere," is the reply.

"Are there any 'Harvard's' or 'Yale's' or 'Shadow's' among them?"

"Not one."

"Ah! that accounts for it," says the captain.

American bicyclers as a body will realize the force of the captain's last remark, but the thousands of new riders which the coming year will produce, should each one of them realize that the only true economy in choosing a bicycle is to be content with nothing less than the very best that money will procure. Each should find out all he can about bicycles before making his choice, and in order to assist enquirers in their search for information, we will, on receipt of a a three-cent stamp, send to any address, a copy of our large illustrated catalogue by return mail.

Is, after all, the most perfectly delightful of the many enjoyments which only the hardy 'cycler can calize. Fortunate, indeed, is he, who, secure in the possession of his sturdy "Harvard," or speedy "Yale," or symmetrical "Shadow," rises with the lark, straps on his "Multum" or his "Takeabout," and leaving the city to its awakening toil and turmoil, glides swiftly out into the purer air and more healthful life beyond. The winding lanes, the sleepy villages, the broad stretches of open country, all develop hitherto unsuspected beauties under the health-giving exercises of the wheel. Are you content with reading this, or will you realize it practically? If the latter, be careful in choosing your bicycle, that you are content with nothing less than the very best that money can procure. You may feel assured that it will prove the truest economy in the end. Find out all you can about bicycles before you make your choice, and if you will send us a three-cent stamp, we will aid you in your search for information, by sending you our large illustrated catalogue by return mail.

SCHOLFIELD'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

PARIS HALL,

No. 193 Westminster Street, Providence, R. I.

This Institution was founded by its present proprietor, A. D. 1846, and has been in successful operation thirty-seven years. The object and aim of this Institution, is to impart to both sexes a

BUSINESS EDUCATION,

Embracing Writing, Book-keeping, and the Laws of Business, Business Correspondence, and the Common and higher English Branches, Mechanical and Perspective Drawing. Also, Water-Color Painting, and Painting in Oil.

Daily Lectures will be given before the students, by the Principal and his Assistants, on Commercial Law, Political Economy, Partnership, Agency, Bills of Exchange, Mercantile Correspondence, Penmanship, etc., etc.

This Institution approximates nearer to actual business in its plan of teaching the science of BOOK-KEEPING, than that of any other institution in America.

Students may enter at any time and will be favored with separate and special instruction.

For further particulars, call or send for our Illustrated Circular and Catalogue.

ADDRESS,

A. G. SCHOLFIELD, Principal.

Third. A person should never be both debited and credited for the same thing in one transaction.

Fourth. An asset should never be treated, either in business or in Book-keeping, as a liability.

Fifth. A liability should never be treated, either in business or in Book-keeping, as an asset.

Sixth. Profit and Loss should never be debited when no loss, either direct or indirect, has been incurred.

Seventh. Profit and Loss should never be credited when no profit, either direct or indirect, has been realized.

Eighth. A person should never be debited in his personal account for his Note or Acceptance in favor of another, while such Note or Acceptance is held in the possession of the creditor.

In the face of these axioms, which prudence dictates and common sense approves, we find in the treatises of which we complain numerous solutions of practical transactions in direct violation of these axioms, as follows:

To debit, as these treatises do, the Interest account of the creditor in a record of the accrued interest on a Note or Bond when purchased from another, is to violate the second, fourth, and sixth axioms.

To credit Interest account in a record of the accrued interest on an assumed obligation in the form of a Note, when such obligation is assumed, is to violate the first, fifth, and seventh axioms.

To debit Interest account for any portion of one's assets on opening a set of Books in Double entry, is to violate the second, third, fourth, and sixth axioms.

To credit Interest account for any portion of one's liabilities on opening a set of Books in Double entry, is to violate the first, third, fifth, and seventh axioms.

To debit the payor's personal account for his protested Note, whilst such note is retained in the possession of the payee, is a violation of the eighth axiom.

Having thus criticised the prevailing, nevertheless very defective, systems of Book-keeping by other authors, it remains for us to produce a better system, a system of Book-keeping governed in all its details, combinations, and results by correct principles; logical, intelligible, correct, and reliable.

Such a system, embraced in a treatise recently published by A. G. Scholfield, of Providence, R. I., entitled an Essay on Debit and Credit, can be had at the following prices:

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

MR. ALBERT G. SCHOLFIELD, principal of the commercial college in Providence, bearing his name, has recently published an elementary and practical treatise on book-keeping, bearing the title of An Essay on Debit and Credit. This careful and exhaustive work on the science of accounts is based upon experience, and will bear the closest analysis and scrutiny. The object has been to elucidate a new and admirable method of detecting errors in single-entry book-keeping, to expose a common fallacy. and to illustrate the true method of opening a set of books in double entry. By a simplified classification of interest and premium, it avoids the fallacious entries of several popular works on book-keeping, which treat a debtor as a creditor and a creditor as a debtor, assets as liabilities and liabilities as assets. They both debit and credit profit and loss in the record of certain original transactions, when there has been neither gain nor loss, and they treat a person as both debtor and creditor, in one and the same transaction. This contradictory classification has puzzled the brains of all classes of persons, and this work will no doubt be hailed especially by accomplished accountants everywhere as bringing light out of darkness.— Boston Daily Advertiser, Oct. 22, 1881.

AN ESSAY ON DEBIT AND CREDIT, by A. G. SCHOLFIELD, is the title of a new treatise upon book-keeping, in which the author claims to have made great improvements upon the methods now in use for keeping accounts, both by single and double entry. The author is the principal of a commercial college in Providence, R. I., and his system appears to be well worthy the attention of all those who take pride in the accuracy of their records of business transactions and the facility of their explanations.— Boston Herald, Oct. 23, 1881.

AN ESSAY ON DEBIT AND CREDIT.— A new treatise on the science of accounts, modestly called an Essay on Debit and Credit, has been presented to us by the author, Mr. A. G. Scholfield, the founder of Scholfield's Commercial College, in Providence, R. I., and for thirty-five years its principal. This exhaustive work marks a new era in the science of accounts. It presents many important and invaluable features not known to the old system — the latter being so intricate and puzzling as to mislead young learners and old accountants alike. This essay will admirably serve the double purpose of simplifying many hitherto complicated things in the science of accounts, and transforming what in its study has heretofore been an irksome task into a pleasant pastime. It exposes the error fallen into by most, if not all other, treatises on book-keeping.

This essay also elucidates fully the duty of an administrator, a guardian, trustee, and a treasurer; thus these and many other features constrain us to pronounce it a work of great excellence and merit, an invaluable guide to the student, an indispensable companion to the accomplished accountant, and a desirable accessory to every well-ordered counting-room.—Lowell Times, June 7, 1881.

ESSAY ON DEBIT AND CREDIT.—Such is the modest title of an exhaustive and exceedingly meritorious treatise on the science of accounts, by Mr. A. G. SCHOLFIELD, of Providence, R. I. The author has not contented himself with walking in the old and beaten paths, but has marked out for himself a new and original one, often running directly across the track of his predecessors. In the old system the classifications of debits and credits have been so illogical and contradictory as to puzzle the brains of both the young learner and the old accountant. The author has done much in this work to aid in clearing away the rubbish usually surrounding this subject, and in presenting it in such a light as to be easily seen and perfectly comprehended.—Lawrence Daily American, Sept. 8, 1881.

DEBIT AND CREDIT.—An Essay on Debit and Credit, by A. G. SCHOLFIELD, of Providence, R. I., founder and proprietor of a commercial college bearing his name, has been brought to our notice. From a partial examination, we are led to the conclusion that it is a work of unusual merit. As a guide to beginners in the science of book-keeping, it will prove invaluable, and as a text-book and counting-house companion, indispensable.—Lynn Daily Evening Item, May 5, 1881.

AN ESSAY ON DEBIT AND CREDIT.—Anything that tends to make book-keeping a more simple art should be hailed with joy. The old systems were worse to follow or explain than a Herald war map, or a tangled skein of silk, and young book-keepers often despair of learning all the intricate, puzzling forms. An Essay on Debit and Credit, by A. G. SCHOLFIELD, has recently been published, that does much to clear the sight of students in book-keeping, and it can be read with profit by guardians, administrators, assignees, treasurers, and other keepers of accounts. It includes lucid illustrations of bills of sale, leases, copartnership contracts, balance-sheets, account-current sheets, etc., and is a very desirable work for everybody to own as a help to defective memories, or deficient knowledge.—Holyoke Transcript, May 14, 1881.

A BRIEF HISTORY

OF Scholfield's Commercial College.

THIS Institution was founded by its present Proprietor, Albert G. Scholfield, in June, 1846.

In the absence of suitable quarters, not to be found in the City of Providence, in which to locate such an Institution, it was located temporarily in the Mallett Building, on South Main Street, waiting the completion of a building in process of erection on Westminster Street, near the junction of Westminster and Weybosset streets, to which (Jones Building) it was removed in April, 1847.

This was the first commercial school established in Rhode Island, and the patronage for its first year was secured by great exertions on the part of the principal, so skeptical were the citizens of the State in regard to the necessity for such a school and the advantages to accrue therefrom.

The primary object of this Institution was to cultivate a taste for Writing, and awaken a greater interest in the science of accounts. Hence, Writing and Book-keeping were the leading branches taught. For the first three years its patronage was drawn mainly from men in actual business, either as accountants or their employers.

It soon became apparent that it were wise to introduce other branches, the common and higher English department and Mechanical Drawing, which latter study has been almost exclusively confined to professional mechanics.

After three years' occupation of a suite of rooms in the Jones Building, and it having become apparent that a more favorable location could be obtained elsewhere, this Institution was removed, in the spring of 1850, from the Jones to the McNeal Building, No. 81 Westminster Street, where it thrived beyond all precedent, and maintained itself against all competition, near or remote. At this stage of progress, occupying, as we did at this time, seven large apartments, all of which were crowded to their utmost capacity, we were compelled, by the constantly increasing number of students, to seek more capacious quarters, which we did, in the Howard Building, to which this Institution was removed in July, 1866.

Whilst the accommodations for such an Institution, thus secured, were the best that could be obtained in this city at that time, and served our purpose better than the place from which we last moved, yet it did not meet all the requirements of an Educational Institution like ours. In the erection and completion of the Paris Building, so-called, on the corner of Westminster and Eddy streets, every desirable provision was made to meet the demands for a Mercantile and Commercial School edifice, and in April, 1881, Scholfield's Commercial College was removed to this building, where it now occupies apartments in every way suited to the demands of the times. The patronage of the school has ranged since its establishment from Fifty to Five Hundred Students per annum. The Teachers have numbered from two to twelve, as occasion has demanded. During the Thirty-seven Years of its existence it has enjoyed a patronage of Eleven Thousand Students, and has graduated Three Thousand Four Hundred in the Business or Book-keeping course. In relation to the merits of this Institution, let its past history and the Eleven Thousand who have received instruction within its walls, answer. In relation to its future, we have only to say that never since this Institution was founded were we as well prepared to impart instruction in the various branches we advertise to teach, as we are to-day.

REMOVAL.

This Institution, recently removed to its present quarters, occupies the entire fourth story of the new Paris Building, No. 193 Westminster Street, embracing the Paris Hall, the dimensions of which are thirty-three by seventy-five feet, fifteen feet studded, and lighted by eight massive windows on the north. Connected with this splended hall are five spacious and commodious rooms, two of which are each sixteen by twenty-four feet. The entire premises are heated by steam, and for light and ventilation are not excelled, if equaled, by any other Educational Institution in this city or State. These unsurpassed College Rooms are reached by a well-lighted and easy staircase, or by means of an elevator. The public are cordially invited to call and look through our premises.
